A Brief Introduction to... The Bonner Program

Access to Education, Opportunity to Serve

The Bonner Program is a campus-based community service program, through which undergraduate students can work directly with local non-profit organizations in an intensive, sustained manner. Each Bonner Scholar or Leader serves ten hours each week during the academic year, often finding ways to combine their passions in the community with their own study and extra-curricular activities. In addition, students often intern full-time with organizations over the summer.

Supported by the Bonner Foundation, a national philanthropic organization based in Princeton, New Jersey, each Bonner Program works to transform not only the students who are directly supported by the program, but also the campus and community in which they serve and learn. It does this by:

- providing access to a college education for students with high financial need and a desire to serve
- affording students the opportunity to engage their talents and leadership in strengthening communities
- channeling the energies of students, faculty, and staff to make significant contributions to the local community
- breaking barriers between town and gown and working to improve people's lives, the environment, and stronger communities
- helping the college create a culture of service so that more are involved in these efforts everyday

What can a Bonner do for you?

Serving 10 hours per week during multiple academic years, and often full-time in summer, Bonner students gain extensive experience in community service and a passion for addressing pressing societal needs. Veteran Bonners are typically more prepared than the average volunteer to take on more intense roles with your organization, ranging from project coordination to grant writing.

Bonner students are expected to develop their knowledge and skills related to their service work over their four years in college. Their personal development should be reflected in their responsibilities at their service site. Each year, students take on increasingly complex responsibilities with their community partner.

The Bonner Program emphasizes partnerships. By partnering with our campus Bonner program, your organization will:

- › have access to an experienced volunteer base
- › gain research opportunities with our academic community on campus
- › engage in relevant policy analysis with the help of Bonner students' PolicyOptions project
- › be connected with a national network of over 80 American colleges and universities and their community partners

Who is a Bonner Student?

Bonner students are enrolled in American colleges and universities and committed to community service. These students were passionate about serving their communities before college. They have been chosen to receive financial aid or other assistance from the Bonner Program so that they may attend college and continue to positively impact their communities. Most Bonner students come from low-income backgrounds, so the aid is important to their education. Hence, the Bonner Foundation's motto is Access to Education, Opportunity to Serve; our intensive community service programs provide both.

Bonner Students:

- › serve 8-10 hours per week in the community
- › move through a training and enrichment program to supplement their knowledge and skills
- › are committed to six common commitments
 - social justice
 - diversity
 - community building
 - spiritual exploration
 - civic engagement
 - international perspective

Community Partner Guidelines

To facilitate an effective relationship between your organization and a Bonner student, it is highly recommended that someone from your staff is assigned to the student as a manager and mentor to their service. Your Bonner site supervisor will work with the student in creating a Community Learning Agreement (CLA) and sign off on hour logs. It is preferred that the site supervisor be present for the majority of the time that the student is on-site with your organization.

• Community Learning Agreement

The Community Learning Agreement is a thoughtful way for Bonners to consider their own developmental goals in collaboration with the goals of the organization. This agreement is at the core of the partnership, enabling students and service sites to achieve mutually valuable goals.

• Hour Logs

Hour logs are printed time sheets that the student and site supervisor will sign off on to affirm the student's service hours at your organization. Deadlines are in accordance with the campus program.
